Farm Smarter and Improve Crop Yields

GeoFarm applies agricultural science to maximize crop yields for farmers who are looking to better manage their yield. Through the use of readily available satellite imagery as well as real-time weather data, farmers are able to make proactive, informed decisions to optimize their crop yields.

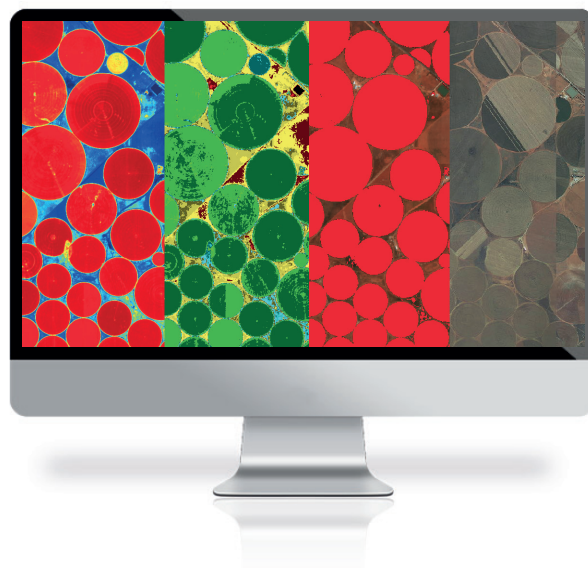

We Know South Africa

Historical satellite data combined with our custom algorithms that are specifically developed for South African conditions can provide predictive analysis to ensure security of the planted crops. GeoFarm can put you at the forefront in meeting the challenge of food security in Africa.
